

I am strongly against this method of internet access because it will cause interference to already noisy receiving conditions. I feel the power companies will do nothing to resolve problems on the power lines just as attempts to clear local power lines from AC power problems never seem to be resolved.